Welcome the the 8th issue of Birthright. I am very happy of this issue in that the crew has worked hard to get this out and half it jam packed full of things to read for you all. I would like to take the time to say hi to Denton, TX for we are now seling down there and hope that all of you will be able to read this and be able to relate to it, to grow is area to cover, and become apart of the scene down there as we have become here. To all of you that wish to be able to buy this at a more conveuent spot please give us the address for we are in need to expaned. We have the abilty just not the places. Well here goes all the thank yous again so get ready. Starting off with Moon Ska, The Recivers, Supergirls, Mexican Breakfast, Funsie, Pie Tasters, New Red Archives, The Bouncing Souls, The Toasters Oppressed Logic, and the Socials for all the stuff to review. To Niro, the singer of the Supergirl's sister, Andy, and everyone that is going to be a first buyer. Oh yea I heard that there eas confution on the split pages so I put white bars inbeteen the articles, if you are still having trouble get help. We also got rid of the storys in the back do to the fact that we now have a comic book that will be coming out on a mouthly bacis. Write to us for one there only 25 cents. Thank you and enjoy. Redfox

Wow yet another issue. Kinda wakes me happy that people read it. By popual request, (demand, command) I'm changing my approach on this zine, I figured that I should start covering more universal issue that can pertain to all of our lives. It's the dawning of a new Poorboy. Thanks you's go out to a long list this time so here it goes: Spencer for the drinky drinks, Evil C. (that Irish guy, heheheh) for the party and the good advice, Trisha for making my life so confussing and interesting, E. for infecting J. (ask me in person), Kim, (You know why I'm thanking you), All you North Kids with the soap-opera-like lives that are damn fun to watch, Justin, Steve form the socials, Josh (Don't bleed on my back seat) Hains for all the coffe talk at Dennys, That one fat bitch who worked at Dennys and got fired (that makes me laugh) Meredith and "Moist and Chewy" (oi,oi), Anyone I forgot...(I know there's a ew), You the reader, and all the bands who hooked us up...Oh yea one more Big thanks you to Germoy for the art. Poorboy

Hey thanks for still buying Birthright you beautiful people! And here's a short clarification about the stalker- Yes that was real, and YES We KNOW IT WAS STUPID! That was the point so please stop asking me about it now! Oh yea- enjoy the zine! Samurai Girl

LAURA
DOING ON THE MOON?!

Can You Spare Some Ska-compilation cd This comp has really goods bands but the entire thing is all there hab shit. It sucks and needs to be recalled. Vegas Record P.O. Box 2175 Newprot Beach, CA. 92659 RF

The Toasters "Don't Let the Basterds Grind you Down" cd This band has stuck to the old and wise ways of ska. With the good old two tone beat and mixture of a good horn and song this band will be around for a good amount of time. Moon Ska Records P.O. Box 1412 New York, NY 10276 RF

Oppressed Logic "P.C. full of Shit!" What can I say? I love these guys, their "Anti-Pc" Lyrics are laughable but true and I love the sound, these guys where hell-cool to me when they came around, buy their shit and go to there shows. Beer City P.O. Box 26035 Milwaukee, W 53226-0035 U.S.A. PB

Bad Manners "Heavy Petting" cd This ska band has a way of being demented perferts, with a voice to match, and have a band that makes you want to get up and skank no matter where you are. Moon Ska Records P.O. Box 1412 New York, NY 10276 RF

The Recivers/Wankin Teens/Groovie Ghoulies "3for the Price of one" 7in. These bands know there intruments and all, but there is only 2 good songs on the 7in. For those of you that like the Groovie Goolies you will want to get it. The Recivers don't have there best on here so don't shut them out. The Wanking teens are Rockable, so you know I liked it. Sellout Records 468 Magellan Ave. San Francisco CA 94116 RF we left this (D Bouncing souls) in Texas, son!!

Bouncing Souls

The Bouncing Souls Self titled cd At last a (sorta) New Bouncing souls album, chocked full of songs about BMX biking, eating other people food and throwing toilets off the roof. Go to Wascals records in Olathe and pick it up. PB

Funsized "The Process of selling out" 7in. This band is way cool and it hits you within the first ten seconds that they definately got there shit together, the first band I've actually totally liked under Fueled by Ramen records . Get it. Fueled By Ramen Records P.O. Box 12563 Gainesville, FL 32604 PB

Supergirls "not my country" cd This band has some really great songs with a message that leaves you thinking about why it is that the world works the way it does. This is worth getting to go out and find it. They challenge so many of the main stream thoughts out there. Another reason I like 'em is do to the fact there anti-religious. Liberation Records P.O. Box 17746, Anaheim, Ca 92817 RF

Pie Tasters "Willis" cd This is one of my favorite ska bands that I have gotten to review. The Pie Tasters always have a way of enchanting me this real well done songs that can always pass the time or make a good time better. Hellcat Records 2798 Sunset Blvd. Los Angeles CA. 90026 RF

Christ on a Crutch "Shit edge & other songs for the young & sentimental" cd This band has a really good thing going. I really do suggest that this be checked out. They have some odd songs in the middle and some really cool anti-propaganda. They take two advertisements and mix 'em. There other songs get to be really well done and powerful. New Red Archives P.O. Box 210501 San Francisco, CA. 94121 RF

Policy/Mexican Breakfast split "not until you finish dessert...and other lessons of youth" cd Policy is a wierd but rad mix crust-hradcore-political music and chaotic ska. Mexican Breakfast is uppity happy pop punk. Bottom rule. And a dollar of it goes to a battered woman shelter. BUY IT! Defenestrate Records 313 Maple Richardson, TX 75081 PB

The Socials!

The Social- Demo! SKA PUNK AND OTHER JUNK. Fast-upbeat-ska/punk that makes you think of the old days of third wave ska. Its got four songs and some of the tapes have a secret song, (that rocks) Great tape, great band, And their Local! Yay!! Write to us for info. (I lost the address...sorry) PB

who's life is it Anyways?

Euthanasia, mercy killing, suicide. Call it what you want, but I've been thinking about it alot lately. Not that I'm suicidal and have a terminal disease, I just wonder about it. I mean, is it right to let a person die? What if a cure was discovered? But, then again, what is freedom?

This isn't an often broadcasted topic. As a matter of fact, if it isn't somehow connected to Mr. Kervorkian it seems no one cares at all. But it is not a uncommon want. Earlier this summer I was volunteering at a hospital with a physical therapist.

One of patients receiving therapy was an elderly woman with a disease that will slowly eat away her nervous system and eventually - after taking away her ability to eat, speak, or have any freedom - kill her. And as I sat there helping her do stretches, she pulled me close to her and mumbled (it took me awhile to understand her) "I want to die."

It was absolutely heart breaking to see. A person who has not only stopped hoping for a cure, but simply gave up on hope altogether. Imagine what makes up your life, walking, eating, driving, going to the bathroom....What happens when you can't? Could it be bad enough to die b/c of?

What about the other side of it though. Should they be kept alive in case a cure is discovered. But more importantly, we should consider the family and friends of the "victim". What happens when a member of the family or a close friend says they want to die. First off, it isn't always a choice they are allowed to make alone, someone else has to okay it. Leaving the responsibility of killing your loved one on your shoulders. Not just for a while, for the rest of your life. And also think now hard if it's what they want. It's not easy to live with.

This procedure isn't always peaceful either. If it isn't in a hospital with a doctor, (and it can't be, because that's illegal) it means something a little more traumatic and painful then pulling the plug on a comatose person, or giving an injection to stop the heart. It could also mean ending a life via carbon monoxide poisoning or even in one case I read about, a gunshot. Maybe this should show that law or no law they will end it. So maybe this should be legalized in order to perform it more "humanly." I do know one definite thing though. We don't need people like Mr. Kervorkian around who don't do it in any attempt at being humane, and charge this person with hospital/doctor bills, medicine, and other bills to pay, an enormous amount of money. This is not a business that anyone should be profiting from. But back to my main point...

There are people out there dying very slowly with no hope of recovery. Should they be kept alive, with no hope or love of life? After all doesn't freedom include the ability to control your life? Or should one be kept alive in the chance of a cure? Or because of the rupture it would cause in the deeply interwoven lives of their loved ones? Either way it's

"Westport F.N.B. is a JOKE!"

BY POOR BOY

Food not bombs is a not for profit organization that started a long time ago, with the intent of feeding the homeless with food that would other wise go to waste by rotting in government warehouses. Kansas has two F.N.B. Chapters, LAWRENCE FOOD NOT BOMBS and Westport food not bombs. Lawrence (f.n.b.) has had alot pf problems (so I've heard) with cops, merchant, greedy punks, etc., yet it still serves once a week. the Westport chapter is a different story, having between five and seven members (it started with more..) it feeds ZERO to six people once a week, westport has many homeless people than that, and Westport has also has alot of active punks, activists, etc. So why is the turn out so bad? I decided to check it out myself (with Redfox) upon arriving there we were assaulted by two of the members with "to punk for you" attitudes, they criticized, insulted, and generally bashed us for twenty minutes before we got tired of it and left. After talking to some ex members I found out that the terrible two, (one of which does a zine, called hitman, which is great till you meet her and she spits at you (literally, she did she did it to me once at a show because "PUNKS CAN'T GO TO SKA SHOWS" or so she said.) chased off 6 members in 2 months and managed to lose 80 dollars that was raised for the chapter, as well as repeatedly (and allegedly) make such remarks to homeless people as "You smell get away" and "Get a job". to the remaining 2 or 3 kids left in that chapter outside of those FEMI-NAZI wanna bes, ya need to start there own chapter and get the terrible two out of the picture before you chapter dies completely. As for you kids who were chased off by those poor excuse's for "EQUAL RIGHTS BOOSTING VEGANS" (there self proclaimed titles..), go to Lawrence F.N.B. their open minded nice people who stick to the purpose. (Thanks to "Tyrone Labamba" and all the others who brought this issue to my attention) F.N.B. of Westport is a Joke

(bleh) One more thing. i'd like top point out that The Girl that hangs out with the riotgrrl wanna-be from hitman was generally a cool person to me until I realized that who-ever she hangs out with automatically decides her own morals and ethics and the way she views life in general... and since she hangs out with the wirtler of hitman her general feelings are a whole lotta male bashing femi-nazi BULL SHIT that makes no sense seeing as she likes guys and preaches EQUALITY..... get your own brain "grrrrrrl:"

I don't care that it is the fucking 90's

I was conversing with someone at Denny's one night and they told me that nothing last's it's the 90's. Well I'm here to say that I don't care that it's the god damn fucking 90's. according to the 90's rule of thumb when things aren't going the right way you want them to, go out and kill yourself. Um no I think that I would regret that pretty bad if there is an after life that I don't believe in. If you look back thought out history there are UP's and down's in the generations. It seems that every other generation has a hard time and things get worse but things get better. Unfortunately it take time and patients, this is one of the few quality that I've rarely seen anywhere in the scene. This is life and what ever time it is or going to be you have to do everything you can to make things work. This has to do with everything from relationships to job doing something with your life. Yes it's true not everything is going to last but that is anywhere or time. Not just the 90's for that's just a date and a dumb excuse to run. Yes it is true that people see the 90's as a time that nothing matters and that you can go and do whatever it is that there heart feels like. They also use it for an excuse to run away from problems as an easy way out in so they don't have to deal of reslove things inlife. These people will realize what it is that they have done and what they have missed, left behind, learn that there are things that you do have to deal with and will regret it all. Most of you are out to fuck the system, well if your going to fuck the system then do what it is that is not being done by the system to show them that the way it is going is wrong. The system is not just the government it is the main crowd of people to, it is the way the world is headed. Hold your head high and show the world that there are other ways to go. Many people don't know about the scene and it shows when they stear clear of you in the hall way. Why don't you move show that you are human to, if you see some one that needs some help don't hold back go to them offer them assistance. Don't just be angry with how the world is show it, express it by chaliging the world. Help open the eyes that are blind, clean the ears that can not hear and lead them to a world where tings do matter and life is worth living. We must go about and accomplish all that we feel in our hearts to be right, and to be fair. WE must show that this world is worth living in and that Unity is possible that it is not all a dream. Fight for what we must and do everything it take to accomplish your dreams. If you can feel it in your hearts you know it to be right then you know it is there for a reason, so do it! Take the risk that make life worth living!! Show others that we are human too that we care and wish to make a difference in this world. You knew when you first put up your hair or wrote or your jacket, that this life style would be hard and that the road would get even harder down the way, but do not give up. Hold the dream, further your self in education, show the world that we are people that things are possible to come about to stay and last through out any time. Things do last, we just have to do our best, do our hardest work, and walk that extra mile that few have travel before

TRACKED ANI...
YOU. Do this and you will have nothing ever in your life to be ashamed of. You will never have to hang your head down for you can hold it high knowing that you are doing your prime and your best to make things last.

I wish you could know how it feels to walk in the back door and greet my parents and family, not having the heart to tell them that you nearly did not come home from this last call.

I wish you could feel my hurt as people verbally, and sometimes physically, abuse us or belittle what I do, or as they express their attitudes of, "It will never happen to me."

I wish you could realize the physical, emotional, and mental drain of missed meals, lost sleep and forgone social activities, in addition to all the tragedy my eyes have viewed.

I wish you could know the brotherhood and self-satisfaction of helping save a life or preserving someone's property, of being there in times of crisis, or creating order from total CHAOS.

I wish you could understand what it feels like to have a little boy tugging on your arm and asking, "Is my mommy o.k.?" Not even being able to look in his eyes without tears falling from your own and not knowing what to say. Or to have hold back a long-time friend who watches his buddy having rescue breathing done on him as they take him away in the ambulance. You knowing all along he did not have his seat belt on-sensations that I have become too familiar.

Unless you have lived this kind of life, you will never truly understand or appreciate who I am, what we are, or what our job really means to us.

I WISH YOU COULD!

Why I still celebrate Christmas.

Yes it's know that I hate religion pretty bad, and I have gotten into some yelling matches with people about the problems that the bible causes, but I still celebrate Christmas. I do not to give some fucking prick that hung on the cross for at the most thirty min., compared to Spartacus who hung for days on end, thanks for my life. No, as long as there is filthy rich and homeless I would never give thanks to such a being that claims to protect all with faith. I celebrate (to a point) for it has many people that see that others are in need and for a while it seems that everyone is going to turn in there ways to help the world solve it's problems. There was once that I was standing out side of Target smoking a cigarette, watching some people drop money into the Salvation army bucket. I don't know if was the time that I was standing there but there was a flock of people that were dropping money into he bucket. And I thought about the idea again about what if everyone in the world would just drop one penny into an organizations pan, how much of a difference that would make on the many who need it, but then the next person that see's me looking out into the crowd says that I need to get some real clothes and a job. I yell at him that I have both and wish he would do more for people than just criticize what it is that they have in life. I guess what I am trying to say is I've still got that little kid inside of me and in my world this time is as good as any other one to go out and seek one's that need help, and then what ever way that I can help them. Even if it be just to give advice or to let someone give it to me. This time is one that is to be one were the world is more at one, and in some places it is but there are many that are not. Even though this is will not be read till after Christmas (which is one of the reason that I'm writing this) if you all would reach into your hearts and talk to that little child that still believes that the Christmas time is still one that is to bring the world together instead of apart by the greed that has come about, and feel that feeling and then ponder on it for a few moments. Next go back to life with that feeling and spread it, but not just for this dumb holiday but all year long. This world could be a wonderful place, for all to see it's beauty, and see it's wonderful sits if we all could just try a little. Oh yea me and Poorboy wanted to help this year and started going all year round at Food not bombs at Westport but we were meet with some hostilities. Refer to Poorboys "Westports F.N.B. is a Joke!"

I Wish You Could

I wish you could see the sadness of a business man as his livelihood goes up in flames or that family returning home, only to find their house and belongings damaged or destroyed.

I wish you could know what it is to search a burning bedroom for trapped children, flames rolling above your head, your palms and knees burning as you crawl, the floor sagging under your weight as the kitchen beneath you burns.

I wish you could comprehend a wife's horror at 3 A.M. as I check her husband of forty years for a pulse and find none.

I start CPR anyway, hoping against hope to bring him back, knowing intuitively it is too late. But wanting his wife and family to know everything possible was done.

I wish you could know the unique smell of burning insulation, the taste of soot-filled mucus, the feeling of intense heat through your turnout gear, the sound of flames crackling, and the eeriness of being able to see absolutely nothing in dense smoke--"sensations that I have become too familiar with."

I wish you could understand how it feels to go to school in the morning after having spent most of the night, hot and soaking wet at a multiple alarm fire.

I wish you could read my mind as I respond to a building fire, 'Is this a false alarm or a working, breathing fire? How is the building constructed? What hazards await me? Is anyone trapped?' or to an EMS call, 'What is wrong with the patient? Is it minor or life-threatening? Is the caller really in distress or is he waiting for us with a 2x4 or a gun?'

I wish you could be in the emergency room as the doctor pronounces dead the beautiful little five-year old girl that I have been trying to save during the past twenty-five minutes, who will never go on her first date or say the words, "I love you Mommy!", again.

I wish you could know the frustration I feel in the cab of the engine, the driver with his foot pressing down hard on the pedal, my arm tugging again and again at the air horn chain, as you fail to yield right-of-way at an intersection or in traffic. When you need us, however, your first comment upon our arrival will be, "It took you forever to get here!"

I wish you could read my thoughts as I help extricate a girl of teenage years from the mangled remains of her automobile, 'What if this were my sister, my girlfriend, or a friend? What were her parents' reactions going to be as they open the door to find a police officer, HAT IN HAND?'

"Pacifism is going to be the death of us all" by poorboy

a great thing in theory (so are communism and most other "isms") but people fail to see that it's just a lousy excuse to let people bully and rule over us. I have much respect for the person who can just walk away from conflict, but you have no respect for those who let the "higher power" treat us like slaves. We're the punks, the outcasts, the rebels. We're the ones who want change, the ones who long for the

Quit only looking for flaws.

Many of you out there have a problem in when you meet someone you come out of the situation with only the bad parts of the person. What is the good of this? What good comes from it? Do you then not have to be nice to the person, or do you feel that you don't have ignorance there existence in this world? What is the use, why is it that you do such things? Why don't you start freedom we deserve, the "fighters", the "Anarchists", the liberators, and we're achieving resisting the duties we have (to take action and change things.) I had a friend in Junior high who was a pacifist, everyone pushed around because he wouldn't stand up for himself or his views. In the 9th grade he dropped out and went (sorta) hermit, I haven't spoken to him since.

the point of that story is that he didn't live up to his views and eventually let society stomp his will power into the ground. No change can be made without taking action. Now ask yourself: "Am I a sheep?" or am I a shepherd?" Someone told me that line came from the bible but I think it applies to the subject at hand. One last quote: "Society creates us, but then it destroys us, but only if you let it."

with a clean slate with subjects that interests you. What ever they maybe as long as you feel you could say something on it. Stuff like the ways of the world, there view on the ways of the world, what there skills and talent they have to give the world, what music they are interested in. Then see what it is that comes up and study it for you never know when you will meet a new friend that could be for the rest of your life. With what ever that no one is talking to.

I have run out of patience for that attitude. I'm sick of hearing someone preaching something they sure as hell must not believe in, because they never try to make others feel welcome. In my opinion, it's one reason that the scene is dying. People won't come if they don't feel welcome! It's hard enough to go to a show alone, and being ignored doesn't help.

So either start talking to that lonely person, or shut the FUCK UP about how acceptent the scene is. And don't complain about the scene dying - because you're not helping it!

"So You want to fuck the system" (Anti-Anti-Joy-Joy part 2) by Poorboy

A long time ago (when I first joined Birthright) I wrote an article called "Anti-Anti-Joy-Joy" and obviously failed to get the point across. A majority of our readers still come up to me and with glazed brainwashed looks in their eyes make outright stupid quotes such as "fuck the system" and "damn the man" these kids (who support the very things they've been taught to despise) make no attempt what so ever to make any change, and generally just sit on their asses and bitch about things to no avail.

Want to destroy the government? Get your views across? direct confrontation is the key, putting your point across (in a zine...heh heh heh) is much more constructive than chanting your epiphany band inspired slogans, and doing (yes doing) something like food not bombs! lawrence f.n.b. that is...), A.R.A., holding a benefit show, or even just doing a zine, is going to make more of a change than whining. next time Yer out and about on Westport, go to recycled sounds and pick up "Profane Existence" it's practically a bible of making change. And isn't changing things for the better what a punk is about?

that I did research, one of them being a paper titled Coping with bereavement. This paper is put together to let people know what it is that they are going to go through. Some of the things are of a variety of reactions with outbursts of weeping, hallucinations, searching, pining, guilt, idealization, loneliness, shock, deprecation, and resolution. These can happen in any order and could take up the rest of someone's life. If you took any life at any time can you live knowing what it is that you have started in the chain of reactions. This will be on your shoulders for the rest of your life in that either stopping a life or not stopping of form being stopped.

Many of the Kansas City kids heard me take about this and I was asking around to see what it is that others would do in the situation. One of the people that I take to was a friend of mine back in Texas by the name of Nick. Nick listened to the scenario and just said that your inaction has a reaction. Can you live with letting someone take a life that you could have stopped form being taken? Would you be able to live with yourselves if you took a life, many people can't, but would you be able to live with yourself if you let someone take someone else's life. These are great decisions and can not be made with just a quick answer. This is something that you must line up your reasons on both sides of the line and ponder the question seeing what it is that you want to go with and could live with. After plenty of research on both side of the line I came up with my decision again. Even though I do not ever wish to take anyone's life I will. If it is the only way then I have decided to take the action that is needed for that is not the time to decide on the subject. I don't ever wish to be responsible for the pain and anguish that anyone will have to go through when a life is taken. I don't wish to be reasonable for taking the little things away from anyone for these are the things that I cherish in life the most. This is a personal decision and only one person in the world can make that decision in any case, that is you. You should not get mad at someone if they feel that they wouldn't do so in the case for that is there right and freedom of who we are is one of the things that we are together fighting for. Choosing one way or another does not make you a better person then anyone else it just means that you can live with the consequence of the side that you choose to take. Thank you.

Acceptance in the scene

I constantly hear talk of how accepting the scene is, of how people in the scene are distinguished by this level of acceptance. I don't know if I agree.

I admit, for one reason or another I don't get to alot of shows. But every time I am, I see people who stand all by themselves, and no one even tries to talk to them. Is that what it means to accept someone? To leave them on the outside? I didn't think that's what acceptance meant. The truth is, most people don't extend themselves to try to talk to the person

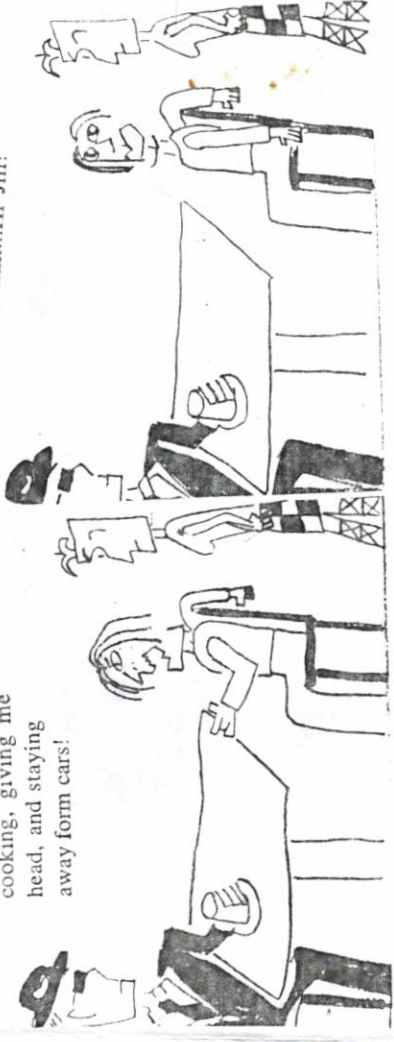

Hey Talon, you know I'm quite tired of girls thinking that they are better then us.

What they should be doing is have babys, cooking, giving me head, and staying away from cars!

AA..Umm...Hi Jill!

Smack!

And now they are trying to bully us!

That is for me to decide.

Many of you that hang around the crew and live in the Kansas City area are expecting me to write a bash article on Samurai Girl, do to the fact that she broke up with me on my decision on this subject. Let me say for the last time that I am not into taking this zine and using it for a weapon in hurting someone, unless it be a cop, judge, Pepsi, government, etc., I have not done them myself in the past and I do not plan on starting now. I write articles on things that come through my life so sense this is something that has come through my life and I have a very strong feelings about the subject I do wish to write on why it is that she broke up with me. The scenario is that someone, any one, has just made an action that is going to kill someone. any one again, in some way. The only way to stop them from killing this other human being to kill them. Take note that this is not some one saying that they will kill someone and then they do it, this is the moment that killing is going to take place. You at this time have spit second thinking to do what ever it is that you feel is necessary. Many of you have already made your decision and would act on it. Good great I have mine too but I did research on the subject that might make you just sit back and think for a while that whatever you do is going to have the biggest impact that some people are not ready for in this day. For those of you that are reading this go to your special spot, if you have one, or somewhere in that you can enjoy the sights of nature and be alone with your thoughts. I was doing just this once when I saw a wonderful sight, a flock of geese flying south for the winter. There are so many things in this life that I wish to be able to see and experience. There are wondrous sites that hold the human mind with awe in that this or that is beautiful and so precious. Just like the sites of the world every human life is also precious, no one is the same and will ever be the same as you. Can you be responsible for taking away someone's chance to see these sites or anything else in the world such as that they will never get to say Mom or Daddy or gases into there first born child's eyes, you would be taking away there life in that they will never be able to do the little things that we always take for granite. It is the site and wonders and little things that make life worth living, can you take these things from this person or those that the death will affect. If the head geese were to be shot the rest of the v formation of the flock would scatter and join up with other flocks or start another v with what is left. This take a time though. There is a chance that those that so not have the instinct that the leader did could be left behind and have to face the harshness of winter. What I am saying with this little nature knowledge is that death affects many, no just the one. It will never be just the one there will always be someone whose life has just changed do to the fact that someone is dead. I looked up many things on the internet on my latest time in
